PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Lexington, South Carolina

July 19, 2011

The Lexington Police Department's Community Action Team recently received a donation from Ted Stambolitis of Flight Deck Restaurant to their "Operation Keeping Seniors Cool" project. This donation provided air conditioner units to two needy senior citizens in Lexington.

Chief Green would like to thank Mr. Stambolitis and the business community along with town citizens for their support of this project. "Operation Keeping Seniors Cool, is a special opportunity for the small and large businesses in our growing community to give back to the area and we appreciate their support of our department." In this special project, the Community Action Team (C.A.T.) asks for donations of box fans, standing fans, window air conditioners and gift cards towards the purchase of cooling devices. These are distributed to our elderly in the community during our extreme temperature months.

If you live in the Town of Lexington and need assistance keeping cool during these high temperature days, please contact the Lexington Police Department at (803) 359-6260.
